IMPACT: GROUND ZERO

IMPACT: Ground Zero, an in-depth interactive CD-ROM, brought to you by 'Bamboole' innovators of edutainment multimedia. This breath-taking CD-ROM takes us back 65 million years. It explores in detail the massive comet strike that wiped out the dinosaurs and 70% of all living species.

From there investigate today's world, where we could face the same deadly threat. Just think of a comet bigger than Mount Everest, traveling at over 50 miles a second smashing into Los Angeles, or Tokyo. Appreciate the awesome potential for destruction.

Meet the astronomers, scanning the skies, who catalog these cosmic hazards and trace their movements through the heavens. Learn what defenses government agencies and scientists have come up with to divert these huge balls of rock and ice away from Earth. Hear their plans to destroy them with nuclear weapons or deflect them with lasers.

Listen to key scientists at Los Alamos, NASA/Ames, Lunar Planetary Institute, Arizona's Spacewatch and Lawrence Berkeley Labs. They have discovered the fate of the dinosaurs. Can we avoid the same fate? Hear from astronaut Mark Lee talk about the dangers of working in space with the threat of micro-meteorites.

View hundreds of amazing pictures of comets, asteroids, meteors and terrestrial impact scars. Experience actual computer animations created by scientists to simulate a strike on Earth.

For more in-depth information visit our Library. It has hundreds of documents written by scientists on the issues and – the solutions.
